

The map displays the Alameda Corridor Transit Corridor, a proposed transit route connecting the San Francisco Peninsula to the Los Angeles Basin. The corridor is shown as a thick red line, with segments labeled A, B, and C. Segment A runs from the San Francisco Peninsula through the Alameda Corridor to the Los Angeles Basin. Segment B runs from the Los Angeles Basin through the Alameda Corridor to the San Francisco Peninsula. Segment C runs from the San Francisco Peninsula through the Alameda Corridor to the Los Angeles Basin. The map also shows existing infrastructure, including freeways (CA 85, US 101, I-5), roads (Glen, Willow, Koch, Kimberly, Bryan, Robert, Parkview, Edenvale, Hayes, Galero, Curie, Harry, McKean, Sierra, Azul, Open, etc.), and landmarks (Alameda Corridor, Alameda Corridor, Alameda Corridor, etc.). A scale bar indicates 0.5 miles.
